Description:
The new branch office for Delaware National Bank was a very successful project that overcame several challenges during construction. The new building rests on a small site that included a temporary branch office which remained open throughout the entire duration of construction. Also, the sweeping curves and radiused walls required precision in the layout and detailing of all the materials used. The end result is a beautiful new facility comprised of a masonry and glass exterior in conjunction with an elegantly detailed interior lobby and support spaces.
